nnual Meeting Of Managers of Home for Aged

Officers Were Re-elected—The nnual Reports of the Secretary d the Treasurer—Board Thanks nerous Supporters.

t the annual meeting of the rd of Managers of the Home for Aged, which was held on the aft-on of January 22nd, all the of-s were re-elected: President, Frank B. Matthews; first vice ident, Mrs. Virgil B. Van Wag-n; second vice president, Mrs. nk G. Phelps; third vice presi-t, Mrs. Harcourt J. Pratt; fourth e president, Mrs. R. D. Clark; re-ding secretary, Mrs. Edgar N. len; corresponding secretary, Mrs. illiam N. Fessenden; treasurer, s. John Brodhead.

The annual report of the secretary lows:

The Board of Managers has met gularly on the last Thursday of ch month, but, due to the continued ficient management of the Home un-r Mr. and Mrs. Davis, there seems have been chiefly routine work for to do.

At the January meeting it was de-ded to publish the annual report in oklet form; since this was the first blished report, this booklet was to ntain information regarding the unding of the Home, etc.

In March the reports, which are a edit to the treasurer, Mrs. Brod-ead's diligence, were ready and sent all members of the Board of Trus-es and the Board of Managers.

At the June meeting the death of e of the old ladies of the Home mily, Mrs. Emily Elmendorf, was ported, and at the July meeting rs. Salome Sahler's death was an-ounced. These vacancies were im-ediately filled by Mrs. Anna Short d Mrs. H. D. Baldwin.

The annual donation was held on the 16th, and the supplies brought to the Home in response to the an-nouncement of the donation shows that the people of Ulster county are remembering the Home for the Aged. Money to the amount of $506.85 was received as well.

At the October meeting the presi-dent reported that, due to ill health, Miss DuMond, assistant matron, has resigned and will leave as soon as someone is procured to take her place. Miss Edna Davis has been engaged to fill this vacancy.

The usual Thanksgiving dinner was served, due to the generous gifts of friends, and at Christmas two tur-keys were given as the nucleus of the Christmas dinner, and each member of the household was remembered with gifts from the Board of Man-agers as well as from other friends. The Christmas trees and greens given by friends of the Home were ar-ranged in such a festive manner that some of the trustees thought it worth preserving in pictorial form and sent a photographer to take pictures of the rooms.

The Board of Managers wishes to express its appreciation to the friends who are continually helping the Home in many ways, and to thank again all those people who contrib-uted to the Home during the year as well as to those who gave at the time of the annual donation; to the doc-tors, who in turn month after month, serve the Home; and to the clergy, who add to their already crowded Sunday, an afternoon service, we cannot give to much praise. The kindness of the Kingston Daily Free-man and the Kingston Daily Leader in printing our monthly gift list and in giving space to our published not-ces is greatly appreciated.

Respectfully submitted,
LAURA R. PALEN,
Secretary.

Will Fight for 20th Amendment

Child Labor Amendment Advocates Say They Will Continue the Fight, as Was Done in Case of 18th and 19th Amendment.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Sponsors of the Constitutional amendment prohibiting child labor asserted to-day that the apparent failure of the amendment, through its rejection by one fourth of the states, would not result in their abandonment of the fight for its adoption.

The fight can and will, they said, be carried on by campaign in the rejecting states, much after the manner that the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Amendments were put through state legislatures.

The Legislatures that have reject-ed the amendment can reconsider their action at any time in the fu-ture. Constitutional amendments re-main pending for years and time and circumstance may change the complexion of a legislator.

The campaign for ratification of the amendment is being directed by the American Federation of Labor. It was stated at labor headquarters today that there would be no change in the federation plans in further-ance of the amendment, despite the unfavorable outlook.

Having approved the child labor amendment and submitted it to the states, Congress can take no further action on the legislation, unless it should approve an entirely new amendment after first determining that there is no likelihood of the first amendment receiving the O. K. of three fourths of the states.

Only two states have thus far ap-proved the amendment. These are California and Arkansas. It has been defeated by Louisiana, Texas, North and South Carolina, Oklahoma, Washington, Ohio, Georgia, North and South Dakota, Delaware and Massachusetts.

"Brand" Name Must Be Original

In response to the advertisement of the Jacob Forst Packing Company of-fering $100 for a suitable brand or trade name, several have submitted names, that are registered by other concerns, which the local company cannot use.

In case the name chosen as the prize winner has been submitted by more than one person, the first one sending in the name will awarded the prize. The contest closes on Feb-14. All mail should be sent to Ron-dout Station, Box 191.

Germany Wants New Alliance

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Jan. 28.—Germany is going to propose a three power pact, com-posed of England, Germany and France to guarantee France's secur-ity along the German frontier, the French foreign office has learned un-officially, it was announced today.

"Feelers" probably will be re-ceived in Paris tomorrow, it was said, looking toward a concrete sug-gestion that such a pact be brought about. Foreign office circles were not inclined to view the idea with en-thusiasm. It was pointed out that through such a pact Germany would have a free hand in Poland.

AVIATOR FLIES OVER HIMALAYAS AT 17,000 FEET

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Calcutta, Jan. 28.—Alan Cobham returned from a flight over the roof of the world today, eager for another try at air lanes though which no air-plane had gone before. His trip took him at a height of 17,000 feet through the heart of the Himalayas and he secured photos of Kun Chin-junga, whose icy peak is more than five miles above sea level.

The aviator said that with the right ship he could fly over Mt. Ever-est, the world's highest peak.

Mussolini Denies and Defies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Jan. 28.—The opposition has been painting him as a petty offender, convicted of a misdemeanor in Switzerland years ago, Premier Mussolini charged today in his news-paper. The Fascist leader charged that Senator Albertini claimed to possess the sentence passed on Mussolini 20 years ago and chal-lenged the senator to prove his charges publicly, either in the senate or in his own newspaper Della Sera Corriere.

Senate to Clamp Down the Lid

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Provoked by publicity given the senatorial at-tacks upon Attorney General Harlan F. Stone, administration leaders to-day studied methods of enforcing the Senate's rule of silence thrown around its secret sessions a century ago.

Led by Senator Reed, Republican, Penna., leaders had under consid-eration a plan to bar from the Sen-ate press gallery the representa-tives of all newspapers publishing news of events that occurred behind locked doors. This would apply chiefly to the secret debate on Presi-dential nominations and interna-tional treaties. It met with favor, especially after party chieftains found they could not enforce secrecy upon their own membership.

At the same time, the progres-sive factions of both majority par-ties were preparing a drive to revise the Senate's rule to permit public de-bate on all questions. It was learned that Senator Dill, Democrat of Washington, is now drafting a "publicity" resolution to be intro-duced within a few days.

"I will introduce a resolution to compel secrecy of the Senate on the consideration of either nominations or treaties," said Dill. "In some instances, where secrecy might be desired by all, I would provide for closed sessions on two-thirds vote of the Senate."

Stapley Bill For Stop Lights

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 28.—A bill sponsored by Assemblyman Stapley, Re-publican of Livingston, which would compel the owner of every closed automobile in the state to have a stop light on his machine is being strongly opposed by the New York Automobile Association.

"The New York Automobile As-sociation is strongly opposed to this bill because it does not believe it necessary," said Herbert W. Baker, secretary of the association.

"I intend to do everything I can to have the bill passed because I believe it will prevent many acci-dents," said Assemblyman Stapley.

This marks virtually the first split between the Automobile Association and Assemblyman Stapley, who is chairman of the motor vehicle com-mittee of the lower house.

STATE WATER POWER USED AT LITTLE COST

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 28.—Republican lead-ers in the capitol today viewed with caustic comment the report of the public works department, issued by Superintendent Frederick S. Greene, exposing the fact that numerous fac-tories and industries along the barge canal are getting power from surplus canal water at dams and spillways at little or no cost.

Colonel Greene's report reviewed in detail the amount of power thus ob-tained by the many concerns along the canal route and proposed estab-lishment of a fixed rate by which the state should be recompensed by the benefited concerns.

London Strike Spreads.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 28.—The strike in the engineering division in the de-partment of public works, curtailing the supplies of heat and hot water for Buckingham Palace and the other royal residences, included other de-partments today. The strikers num-bered 3,000. They were threatening to picket the palace.

Raisuli Capture Rumored.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Tangier, Jan. 28.—Reports that Raisuli, the "Robinhood of Moroc-co," had been captured were current here today following an attack on Tazerout where he lives. There was no confirmation of the rumor.

Still Fire Call And One Entrance Trolley Service

Were Considered by Board of Public Works in Busy Session Tuesday Night—Trolley Question Up at a Joint Meeting Later—Other Mat-ters Considered.

The question of changing the pre-sent fire alarm system of Kingston so that all fire alarms would be "stills," and the matter of having the local trolley cars equipped so that passengers could enter and leave the car by the right side only, were some of the more important matters considered by the board of public works in a busy session Tues-day evening at the city hall. The one entrance trolley service will be con-sidered at a joint meeting of a com-mittee from the public works board, police commissioners and common council. The change proposed in the fire alarm system will also be taken up later.

Cornell Street Crossing.

Now that the board has obtained the deeds to the land needed for the elimination of the Cornell street rail-road crossing from the Cornell estate and the Lace Mills it was de-cided to take the matter up with the West Shore railroad authorities and ascertain when the work of eliminat-ing the crossing would be started.

Sewer Cleaning Equipment.

Secretary John J. Linson reported that he had taken the matter up with various concerns manufactur-ing devices for cleaning city sewers and had received prices ranging from $875 to $2,275. By use of a sewer cleaning machine the board believes that it can eliminate the present costly method of digging up improved streets to get at clogged sewers.

The question of purchasing equip-ment was referred to the supply committee with power.

Stephan Street Sewer.

A petition was received from resi-dents of Stephan street and Clifton avenue requesting a change in the line of the sewer now under con-struction. This matter has been before the board before and at the last meeting City Engineer Hallinan submitted a plan of changing the location of the sewer that would greatly decrease the cost of construc-tion. Superintendent Van Keuren was directed to make the change in the line of the sewer as requested by the petition, and work will be resumed on the sewer as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

Sterling Street Tunnel.

Secretary Linson was instructed to take the matter up with the West Shore railroad authorities and see what action the railroad had taken on the proposed plan to construct a vehicular tunnel under the railroad tracks at South Sterling street.

One Entrance Trolley Service.

Commissioner Greenwell brought up the matter of the trolley road equipping its cars so that passengers could enter and leave the car by the right side only as in other cities. After some discussion it was decided to hold a joint meeting with com-mittees from the police board and the common council to consider the matter. The committee from board of public works consists of Commis-sioners Greenwell, Fessenden and Rafferty.

Street Signs Needed.

Commissioner Greenwell also called the attention of the board to the lack of street signs in the city, and Superintendent Van Keuren was directed to prepare a list of street signs needed and submit his report to the board later.

House Numbers Considered.

Commissioner Chandler also brought up the question of the pro-per numbering of houses, and stated that there should be a uniform sys-tem of house numbers adopted, which should be conspicuously displayed. It was referred to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins to ascertain if the common council had ever adopted an ordinance covering the matter.

When Sewer Is Clogged.

The board received a report from Superintendent Van Keuren regard-ing two claims for plumbing work which the householders claimed should be settled by the city as the stoppage occurred outside the curb line. The claims were ordered paid, and Corporation Counsel Jenkins was instructed to draft an ordinance and submit it at the next meeting which would compel the property owner to first notify the board of public works of the stoppage of a sewer before sending for a plumber. Under the proposed ordinance the city would not be liable if the board was not first notified, even if the clogging of the sewer was found beyond the curb line.

Still Fire Alarms.

The question of changing the pres-ent bell system of fire alarms was brought up by Commissioner Chand-ler. He stated that when the fire bell rang that traffic was blocked and the fire apparatus obstructed by automo-bilists hurrying to the fire. If the bell only rang in the engine house the fire apparatus would not be inter-fered with in answering the alarm. He proposed that if, when the fire chief arrived at the fire and saw that more men were needed that he could send in word to the Central Fire Sta-tion and the fire alarm could be rung notifying the volunteer fire companies that their services were needed.

After some [illegible] the matter was decided to take [illegible] up at a later meeting.

Deeds to Streets.

A deed to Manor Place was re-ceived and referred to the corporation counsel for investigation before it was finally accepted by the city. The same action was taken to a deed con-veying Wrentham street, Clarendon avenue and Westrum street to the city.

Storm Shed at Park.

Commissioner Greenwell brought up the question of erecting some sort of a shed at Forsyth Park so that in case of a storm those at the park could be sheltered. It was referred to the park committee to obtain esti-mates of the cost. The question of lighting the city parks at night was also discussed, and referred to the park committee.

Routine Matters.

The board decided that hereafter it would hold its regular monthly meetings at the city hall at 9 o'clock in the evening instead of 8 o'clock.

At the present time members of the street department are paid on the 5th and 20th of each month, and it was decided that hereafter when those days fell on holidays that the men be paid the day prior.

The question of purchasing a tract of land on which stone crushed by the city crusher could be stored, was left to Mayor Block with power.

Resolutions from the common council asking for street improve-ments and lights were read and re-ferred to the various committees of the board for action.

A proposition from the Universal Road Machinery Company to furnish the city with either a five or ten ton tractor and snow plow was filed.

Want to Install Tanks.

Silas Kimbark of 75 Crown street petitioned the board for permission to install a gas tank and pump in front of his property. It was re-ferred to Superintendent Van Keuren and Commissioner Green-well.

Nelson R. Smith's application to install a sign in front of his garage at 154 Clinton avenue, was referred to the superintendent.

A petition from the Kingston Hardware Store to install gas tank and pump in front of 711½ Broad-way, was referred to the superintend-ent and Commissioner Greenwell.

Sewer Costs Reported.

Superintendent Van Keuren sub-mitted reports showing that the cost of constructing the Cross street and Moore street sewer was $4,004.04, and a portion of a sewer in German street amounted to $377.65. The reports will be referred to the com-mon council.

Mechanical Traffic Signals.

Chief of Police Wood submitted a communication stating that in his opinion the mechanical type of traffic signal was the best and should be installed. The matter was referred to the supply committee with power.

Lighting Traffic Signs.

A communication [illegible] from the Kingston Gas & Electric Com-pany regarding the [illegible] of light on traffic signs at the entrance to the city as required by state law. After some discussion the electric company was instructed to install a flood light at the Albany street en-trance to the city. [illegible]

Several routine matters were also [illegible] and the board then ad-journed.

Appeal From Webber's Decision

Kozlowski and Gardeski are Re-leased on Bail Bonds on Appeal From Justice Webber's Judgment.

John Kozlowski and Frank Gar-deski of this city, who were sent to the Ulster county jail by Judge Wal-ter Webber at Flatbush to serve 60 days and pay fines of $50 each, have appealed from the judgment, and re-leased from custody on bail bonds. They were charged with unlawful assemblage with John Corbet and Peter Malia of Port Ewen in de-stroying the property of Jack Claire on the Saugerties road to which they pleaded guilty. Andrew J. Cook is their attorney.

Coldest Weather Grips Kingston

Thermometers at Woodstock Regis-ter 20 Degrees Below, While Those in City Mark 18 Below —Kingston Shivers in Old Time Winter Weather.

The coldest weather of the winter broke over Kingston preceding and following the eclipse of the sun on Saturday, and Tuesday night 20 degrees below zero was reported at Woodstock, while in Kingston thermometers registered from 12 to 18 below according to where they were hung. On the Strand at noon today thermometers registered 4 degrees above zero.

According to the weather report no let up in the cold weather may be expected for forty-eight hours.

The Hudson river is icelocked, and since the ferry stopped running Sat-urday navigation on the river and Rondout creek has ceased entirely for the winter. Automobiles are crossing the ice from Kingston Point to Rhinecliff.

Tuesday night and early today a cold, biting raw wind blew which made it seem much colder than it was. Householders found it neces-sary to keep the furnaces running full blast in order to keep the house comfortable.

Zero Weather To Last 48 Hours

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 28.—Eastern and northern New York shivered today in the coldest weather of the winter. The official thermometer at the weather bureau here showed ten be-low zero. Nearby places reported from ten to 15 below.

At Canton, New York, according to a report received at the weather bureau here it was 42 below.

Other points in the Adirondacks reported 20, 22 and 28 below.

The zero weather is expected to last for at least 48 hours more.

Olean, N. Y., Jan. 28.—This city and southwestern New York experi-enced the coldest weather of the season and a drop in temperature of seventy degrees within 36 hours. The coldest weather reported in the city this morning was 30 degrees be-low zero. The temperature registered 40 above Monday.

New York, Jan. 28.—New York muffled up today as the mercury held to about five above zero.

More snow was predicted for Thursday, with slightly warmer tem-perature.

The thirty degree drop in the tem-perature caused one death, injuries to several persons and an attempt by a woman to commit suicide.

Alice Jones, of Freeport, Long Island, was found frozen in a rock-ing chair in her home.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The third anniversary of the collapse of the Knickerbocker Theatre, which killed nearly one hundred persons, brought another heavy snowfall and bitterly cold weather today to the capital.

Two deaths because of the drop in temperature were reported.

Dr. G. P. Lumsden, 70, a former commandant of the naval medical corps died, from heart disease after being marooned in the snowstorm. Archie Burrell, a negro, was found frozen to death in an unfrequented street.

At 7:30 a. m., the temperature was 2.9 degrees above zero.

Zanesville, Ohio, Jan. 28.—Ther-mometers in this city recorded lower temperatures this morning than have been felt for several years ranging from 15 to 20 degrees below zero. The coldest spot in the county and possibly in the state was Connells-ville, a mining town ten miles south of here, where 29 below zero was reported. At the Ralph Rehl home, five miles west of Zanesville on the National road, it was 26 degrees below zero.

Wheeling, West Va., Jan. 28.—The coldest day in several years was recorded here this morning when the mercury dropped to 12 degrees below zero. Creeks froze over night, while frost filled the air to a density of fog.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mount Holly, N. J., Jan. 28.—Fire which destroyed half a block of buildings in the center of the town early today was estimated to have caused $150,000 damage. Zero weather and snow drifts hampered firemen in fighting the flames.

Dispose of Three Cases for County Court

Samuel Yellen Sentenced To Elmira Reformatory For Grand Larceny —Select Jury For Altizio Trial.

Three more cases were disposed of in county court Tuesday afternoon making a total of sixteen cases dis-posed of by District Attorney Traver, only one of the cases so far coming to trial. In all other cases the de-fendants entered pleas of guilty as charged in the indictments.

Edward Smith changed his plea Tuesday afternoon and entered a plea of guilty to leaving the place where an automobile accident had taken place without giving his name etc., as required by law. Chris Flana-gan appeared for Smith who was fined $200 and sentenced to three months in the county jail. The jail sentence was suspended provided he pay the fine by the opening day of county court in April and behave himself in the meantime.

Leonard Phillips indicted for a violation of section 1897 of the Pe-nal Law, possession of a pistol with-out a permit, also changed his plea to guilty. In his case on account of a prior excellent record and on ac-count of his youth Judge Fowler suspended the execution of sentence and paroled Phillips in the custody of the Rev. A. S. Cole, through whom he will report to Probation Officer Robert Service for six months.

Samuel Yellen of High Falls, how-ever, did not fare so well. He was sent to Elmira State Reformatory until discharged by law. Through his counsel Frank W. Brooks he changed his former plea of not guilty to that of guilty of the charge as specified in the indictment, grand larceny, in having stolen an automobile. Mr. Brooks asked the court to suspend sentence or at least impose a jail sentence on the boy on account of his youth and also on account of his mother who is ill. Yellen, with his parents moved to High Falls some time ago where they purchased a farm. Since then his mother has be-come ill and needed the assistance of her son. However, the court im-posed sentence when Mr. Traver had asked that some punishment be given in view of the seriousness of the crime.

Yellen, who is but 17 years old by his plea of guilty admitted the crime, but at the time of his arrest said he had no part in the taking of the car. Later he admitted taking the car from New Paltz, but said it was just for a joke on the owner, Mr. LeFever.

Mr. Traver explained to the court the circumstances in the case as they had been brought out. Yellen and several men were passing through New Paltz in a car, they saw the LeFever car parked in the yard of the owner's home. After a con-versation between the men in the car on the road, Yellen was seen to jump from the other machine and enter the LeFever machine which he drove rapidly away. An effort was made to head the car off by telephone, but on account of the manner in which the sedan car acted as an escort it was impossible to secure the num-ber of the LeFever machine. As Yellen drove across the flats near Modena a state trooper, who was patrolling on his motorcycle, hap-pened to come along. Yellen saw the trooper and evidently thinking the trooper had been notified of the theft stopped the car when he saw the trooper approach and ran into a swamp along the road where he lay down. Suspicious of the actions, the trooper investigated and found Yellen apparently asleep in the swamp. At that time Yellen said he knew nothing of the car and had not been driving it. He said he had been walking from New York to High Falls and had become tired and went into the swamp to sleep. It was about 7 o'clock in the morning. Yellen was escorted back to New Paltz and later admitted he had taken the car for a joke.

In the four indictments against Samuel Basch of this city, Mr. Traver stated that he could not tell just when the cases would be taken up. Mr. Brooks, who appears for Basch, asked that he be informed by the district attorney when and which one of the cases would be moved for trial. Circumstances would not per-mit the information being given and the district attorney agreed to notify Mr. Brooks as soon as he knew him-self when and which one of the cases would be taken up for trial. If Mr. Brooks then does not have sufficient time to prepare the case a motion to put the case over the term on that ground will be made.

District Attorney Traver moved the trial of the indictment against Leonardo Altizio, a charge of assault second degree, and the work of selecting a jury was commenced. Milton O. A. Chernoff appears for Altizio who is charged with having committed an assault upon John Snyder, who conducts a garage in the town of Marlborough. Altizio lives near Highland.

Butterfly Table Delicacy

The Emperor moth or honeycly is a delicacy which epicures among certain aboriginal peoples of Australia will travel long distances to obtain. The honeyfliss gather every year on the slopes of the Bogong mountains, in New South Wales, where they are caught by being suffocated by the smoke of wood fires lighted under the trees.

Has a Bald Head

The curious appearance that the bald head and neck of the bald kite gives is heightened by the bright red coloring of the top of the head and the pale blue of the neck and sides of the head, says Nature Magazine. The general color of the plumage is metallic green. This rare bird is a native of the mountainous parts of South Africa. It is comparatively little known.

Payrolls Show Important Gain

Factory Payrolls of New York State in December Increased Three Per Cent — Average Earnings Were $28.26.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, January 28.—The renewed upward swing of business was evident in December's increase in industrial activity. Factory payrolls of New York state were three per cent higher than in November. Part of this gain appeared because the previous month's reports had included Armistice Day. But the rise was important, as the end of overtime in some lines which supply the Christmas trade ordinarily tends to send payrolls lower in December.

This statement was issued today by Industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton of the State Department of Labor. It is based on reports from a representative list of manufacturers who employ half a million workers or about 40 per cent of the factory workers of the state. This list of plants was selected as representative of the separate industries and the various localities of the state, and has been maintained, practically without change, since 1914.

The December gain in payrolls is comparable in size to the one in December 1922 when industry was also moving in an upward direction. At that time however manufacturing was in the second stage of the upward movement and metal manufactures such as instruments and appliances, tools, and light metal ware, as well as clothing, were already more active. Now it is the steel and copper mills and railroad equipment which are bringing up the total volume of employment. Textiles are also responsible for part of the improvement and glass, leather and shoes, have contributed to a smaller extent this month. Payrolls for all metal industries are within nine per cent of the average for 1923, but some, such as cutlery and tools and stamped ware, are from 14 per cent to 30 per cent below. Instruments and appliances while they compare relatively favorably with the year 1923 are well below last December.

Earnings of Men and Women.

Average earnings for December were $28.26, the highest since the depression. Men received $31.52, 50 cents more than in November but this was partly due to the holiday last month. Women averaged $17.13.

Men wage earners were just a little better off in 1923 than this year. In the heating apparatus shops they now average $3.60 less than a year ago. Electrical and railroad equipment shops also report a lower average at present. Chemical and oil plants, textile mills and clothing shops average more, partly because of lower employment.

Women in electrical equipment factories received $1.70 more this December than last year, a gain that is important because of the number of women employed here. There was a reduction in instruments and office equipment. Operatives in knitting mills were the only textile workers who were at a disadvantage in comparison with 1923. Where they had received $16.75 last year they were averaging $14.80 at present. Women in shirt and collar factories were paid $14.40, where they had gotten $12 in $1923.

Wage Rate Changes.

More wage rate decreases were put into effect in December where November had shown only a few. Three from 8 to 15 per cent were reported in the metals. Part of the downward tendency of rates in textile factories was evident in reductions of 10 to 15 per cent which were put into effect in several knitting mills. A few increases were reported in other industries. On the whole, however, the movement toward decreased rates which was gaining headway in the early summer appears to have worked itself out.

Increases Balanced.

New York city showed little change in factory employment from November to December, but earnings were slightly higher.

Most of the sewing trades were still seasonally dull although manufacturers of women's cloaks and suits began to prepare for the spring demand. Some neckwear factories were busier in he middle of December as reorders came in but on the whole Christmas activity was ended. Average earnings in shoe plants were lower.

Payrolls of factories making [illegible] products were almost 5 per cent higher than last month. Tin [illegible] electrical equipment and [illegible] were the chief exceptions to the increase. There were reductions in the food plants.

Metal Workers Benefit.

The Capitol District reported a 5 per cent increase in wage payments in December. Over 1,400 workers were added in the reported metal factories, which meant an increase of $54,000 in weekly payrolls. Railroad equipment factories were much busier and increased working time in the repair shops sent payrolls in these industries up over 10 per cent. Steel mills in this district, which have lagged behind the rest of the state, moved forward and machinery and electrical apparatus shops were more active. Payrolls rose in some of the textile plants.

Increases in Buffalo and Utica.

Buffalo factories continued the upward movement begun in August with another 2 per cent increase. All but two of the metal industries reported good increases. There was an important gain in some of the chemical plants and men's clothing started up sharply. Meat packing was the only food industry to show a gain in payrolls.

An increase of over 1 per cent in payrolls of the Utica district paralleled the rise in employment. However the parallel did not extend to the separate industries. Earnings rose in all of the metal industries, furniture factories and men's clothing shops. On the other hand textile workers felt a reduction of 50 cents in their average as payrolls in the collar mills dropped 4 per cent. Knitting mills were were slightly less active. The largest increase came in the brass and copper mills which are within 5 per cent of December, 1923, a good month of last year.

With the exception of good products and the sewing trades all of Binghamton's industries industries were more active than in November. Earnings rose after the holiday reduction last month and are now $1.20 higher than in December 1923.

Syracuse reported a small gain in wage payments without any change in employment. There again increased production in steel mills and iron foundries accounted for a large part of the increase. Automobile factories continued to run on reduced schedule and so keep payrolls and employes well below last year. Except for a seasonal gain in men's clothing there were few favorable changes. Several heavy reductions were made in the shoe factories and earnings averaged $3.25 lower than in December 1923.

Further Reduction in Rochester.

Payrolls and employment in Rochester are about 8 per cent below December 1923. Heavy reductions in the canning factories accounted for most of the decrease from November to December.

An important part of the metal industries of Rochester belong in the class which responds slowly to changes in basic conditions. Factories making calculating machines and similar office equipment have not yet been affected by the renewed activity in some lines of industry. This and the depression in railroad equipment and repair shops brings employment in the metal industries here below the low point of July 1924. Payrolls are a little higher.

SUNSET HOUR—

NEW YEAR'S DAY—1925.

High in the southing the quarter-moon, sailing the azure blue, looks out upon the mystery of the west; where cloudling cirrus birdlets, winged in the baby pink of the new-born year, are flocking across the heavens. These birdling-clouds are bright with promise and hopes for the glad new year and are heading northeast, seemingly driving away the blackbird-clouds of the old year now slinking out of sight on the far horizon into the gray of oblivion.

The man-in-the-moon is looking wonderingly at the scene that is staging on the screen of the west.

The clouds of sunset-rose-and grey are moving about, grouping in a curious formation that seems strangely familiar.

What is the reel?

Even the man-in-the-moon appears to be gazing quizzically through great horn-rimmed glasses at what may be a reflection in the sky of the present craze of the people on earth; can it be that the heavens are putting on a cross-word puzzle on the screen of the west?

Now and again the man-in-the-west seems pondering over the center line, 7 to 17, for "two words of five letters each that convey the accepted meaning of 'A Happy New Year!'"

The comedy is done and the film runs on to nobler theme.

The man-in-the-moon is gazing still with thoughtful mien upon the mystery of the west; wondering, too, what it will be, what will it be?

The same clouds that played in the lighter vein now appear again in heavier work, even as "man in his time plays many parts."

Upon the sunset cloud that was like the grey of granite, the artist is roughing out an art-panel, a bit of cloud-sculpture, that hints at budding hope and prospect for the coming year, and at grand achievement, an indistinct vision in an ideal of and for the future, a dream in the making!—a bas-relief in the bronzed-copper of the clouds, an indefinite something brought out in and by the high-lights of sunset-rose!

What will it be?

That is not yet revealed; none but "1925" can tell, and 1925 runs out and under the slowly lifting veil of the future.

Mozart

It is doubtful if anybody knows the exact spot where Mozart is buried. A violent storm was raging at the time of the funeral, and the hearse went its way unaccompanied to the churchyard, and his body was committed in the paupers' corner. In 1859 the city of Vienna erected on the probable spot a monument to his memory.

A stock Cleveland Six made this famous 9½ mile California climb in 24 minutes 47.04 seconds—reducing the previous record by more than a minute and capturing the coveted Los Angeles Evening Express Trophy.

and* Mt. Diablo!

A second new power and performance record was hung up when a stock Cleveland Six hurtled to the top of Mt. Diablo—covering the tortuous 11.6 mile roadway in 22 minutes 36 3-5 seconds.

and* Mt. Baldy!

With gears locked in high, a stock Cleveland Six reached the summit of Mt. Baldy in 14 minutes 31 3-5 seconds. By this unexampled feat of high gear power and flexibility, more than 2 minutes were slashed from the existing record and the Pomona (Cal.) Bulletin Trophy was won.

and* Frisco to Portland Run!

Driven through blinding storms, a Cleveland Six sedan traveled between San Francisco and Portland, Oregon in 21 hours and 29 minutes. This new road record lowered by more than 4 hours the schedule of the crack Shasta Limited, famous Pacific Coast flyer between these cities.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

League Farmers Welcome Move

Of Association To Concentrate On Fluid Milk Market—League Retains Dairylea Trademark Ownership—Borden to Act as Sales Agent.

According to those in close touch with its affairs, the practical elimination of most of its surplus operations as announced last week, and a greater concentration on fluid milk sales is a most logical step in the development of the sales program of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc. This step was made possible, they say, only because League farmers by 100 per cent cooperation have gradually strengthened their financial position to a point where they are able to take advantage of opportunities offered them to expand their fluid markets.

Poolers everywhere are expressing complete agreement with the League's present move to discontinue its evaporated operations. League farmers have always looked forward to the time when the increase in the fluid milk sales of the cooperative association would allow them to decrease or perhaps cut out entirely their manufacturing operations. The present move, therefore, means that they are nearer the realization of their dreams than ever before.

The first reports printed in some of the papers gave rise to a feeling of fear in the minds of some of the members that the association had sold the "Dairylea" trademark to the Borden Company. Complete information, however, given out later and printed in this week's issue of the Dairymen's League News shows that this is not the case. The League retains the ownership of the Dairylea trademark, which has been so firmly established in the evaporated milk trade, and the Borden Company merely have a lease, by the terms of which they agree to act as distributing agent of the League's Dairylea brand of evaporated milk.

This lease as well as the leases given on the three League evaporated plants, it is stated, may be cancelled by the League on short notice. It is further declared that members need have no fear their rights have not been fully protected in this arrangement.

G. W. Slocum, president of the association, in a message to League farmers in this week's issue of the News, in referring to the recent expansion of the League's fluid business, says:

"In addition to the purchase of these properties and the consequent expansion of our city fluid milk business, we have at the same time retired with smaller deductions than we have ever had before, approximately $800,000 worth of League certificates of indebtedness. The retiring of these certificates of indebtedness will materially lessen the burden for the farmers who continue to be members of the League and are members when our series "A" becomes due. This readjustment of our condensing business will also make available larger funds that can be used in retiring certificates of indebtedness."

Going on, President Slocum says: "The acquisition of the 10,000 cans of additional Class 1 milk has put the league in an entirely different position in regard to its marketing program than it was 12 months ago. It will make it possible, because of the little surplus which we have now available and which will not be available for two or three months, for the league to obtain possibly 1c per quart more for its members in their January sales and possibly 2c more for their February sales, or, in other words, a total of $1,500,000 additional money for league farmers, which nearly offsets the entire cost of acquiring these additional markets.

"From now on, our volume of manufactured products will be so small that the officials felt that an organization to maintain these manufactured products was unwarranted and that others in the industry who had facilities already established could act as agents for the league to handle the small amount of manufactured products which the league has."

In concluding his message to league farmers, President Slocum says:

"From now on it will be necessary to conduct the league's affairs in such a way that our production will not be increased through the taking on of new members only when such additional membership will be a distinct advantage to the present members. In other words, it will be our policy to avoid increasing our surplus beyond its present proportions. This is not in a spirit of hostility to non-members but as a just protection to members.

"We find ourselves today in the strongest position we have ever been in our history, and moving with greater rapidity than ever before."

In describing somewhat in detail the plants sold to the Borden Company at Burke and Whitesville, and those leased at Milton, Cooperstown and Troy, Pennsylvania, the News says:

"With regard to the plants that will be leased to the Borden Company, ample provision has been made whereby that company will receive at all times all of the pool milk in the respective sections.

"The league has received for the two plants sold a price that is substantially above that at which the plants were carried on the books of the association.

"In all the agreements entered into the board of directors have taken precaution to protect the interests of every member of the association. Farmers need have no fear on this point."

There is ample evidence throughout league territory that league members as well as directors and officials are pleased [illegible] this arrangement is the [illegible] the about of the [illegible] league's surplus [illegible] consequently greater [illegible] for its marketing [illegible]

January Prices To Be Maintained

At the regular January meeting of the Board of Directors of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., held in New York city on January 16 and 17, it was recommended that the present schedule of milk prices be continued through February, unless a change in marketing conditions should make necessary a revision in some of the classes. The Executive Committee have authority to act in such an emergency.

So far as the League is concerned, however, reports indicate that there is good reason for believing these prices may be maintained throughout the month. The present prices are considerably higher than a year ago at this time. The prices now in effect are: Class 1 $3.07 per 100 pounds (3 per cent butterfat) at the 201-210 mile freight zone; class 2-A (milk for cream) $2.10 plus skim milk value; class 2-B (plain condensed and ice cream) $2.25; class 2-C (soft cheeses) $2.15; class 3-A (evaporated, sweetened condensed) $1.90; class 3-B (milk powder) $1.85; class 3-C (Swiss and other cheeses of similar type) $1.65; classes 4-A and 4-B (butter and American cheese) price determined by average wholesale price of butter and cheese, respectively, during January.

PARIS LIKES THE COIFFANT HAT.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

After an absence of many seasons, the navy hat is being introduced and is again appreciated. Paris is weaning its women away from the multiplicity of brown shades which have varied the monotony of black, and is offering the navy hat. This is with the expectation of course, that every wardrobe will contain a navy suit or frock for spring.

While there is a difference of opinion concerning the ultimate success of the exaggeratedly peaked crown, all seem to agree that the coiffant crown—which, being translated, means the one which follows the outline of the head—will be a general favorite. Such crowns are frequently sectional and often of contrasting materials, or corded so that the sections are accented. Trimmings do not always occur at their apex, but have a way of so doing.

Violet, or the violine shades, as the French term them, are expected to be very smart, for, having succeeded in establishing purples, fashion is loath to relinquish its richness.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 28, 1925.

Professional boosters or "claquers" have been reported in Paris and possibly substantially the same sort of thing has been quietly operated in New York, but it remained for Brussels to produce a man who publicly advertises himself as a "manager of enthusiasm" and engages to bring success to new plays by providing applause at proper moments during the performance.

The proposal made at the recent dinner of the Ulster County Society in the City of New York, already endorsed by the Dutchess County Society, to look into the possibility of establishing permanent club rooms in New York, is worthy of careful consideration. If, by the cooperation of the various county societies, the plan can be financed, it would open a new field of very real usefulness for these organizations. Not only would there be a place for the active members to gather, where they would often find friends from home, but the man from the home town who is without club affiliations in New York would have a place to rest his weary feet while waiting for his train or for the time of an appointment to come. To many a visitor to the big city such a club room would be an oasis in a desert, the shadow of a rock in a weary land. To the financing of the proposition the home town folks should be permitted to contribute substantially.

CRIME AND THE PRESS.

At the recent meeting in Washington of the American Society of Newspaper Editors an old subject was discussed—whether or not publicity should be given to crime by the press, and if so, in how much detail. It is pretty widely supposed that no newspaper hesitates to feature crime even of the most sensational or vile character. There is a current "movie" which pictures a managing editor as no less eager to destroy reputations and drag honorable family names in the dust than is any jungle beast to attack and kill. But at this Washington meeting of editors, although the subject discussed inevitably brought out difference of opinion, some speakers went so far as to advocate the virtual exclusion of all accounts of crime from the newspapers on the ground that they would suggest to readers the commission of similar crimes.

Undoubtedly there are papers which, with commercial gain in view, pander to a wide popular taste by giving too much space and detail to startling crimes. For example, a reputable newspaper recently published twice the photograph of a young woman who murdered her mother—a needless and shocking accentuation of a monstrous news item from which right-minded people inevitably prefer to turn away their eyes. On the other hand, it is unquestionable that crime is legitimate news. Not only has the public a right to know what is happening in the world, but there is a deterrent effect in the fear of publicity as well as suggestion to commit similar crimes which such publicity is supposed to cause, and possibly sometimes does cause, in weak or depraved minds. It is pertinent to add that such minds would receive incitement through other channels even if the annals of crime were restricted to court records and the newspapers kept silent. As already indicated, what is to be deplored is not publicity itself, but the prominence, space, and over-emphasis too often involved.

To speak of "the press" as a whole in this connection or in any other is misleading and unjustifiable, although it is commonly done. It was done at this same Washington meeting of editors when a representative of the medical publications complained of the errors of the "newspaper press" in dealing with medical news. He said he had seen "Angora pectoris" used for "angina pectoris," "plural pneumonia" for "pleuro-pneumonia," "military tuberculosis" for "miliary tuberculosis" and "cock-eye" for "cocci"—errors which, barring typographical slips, would not be found in newspapers of the better class. He also complained that within a year "the press" had exploited as wonderful new discoveries five "cures" for tuberculosis and as many for cancer which lacked "the slightest scientific evidence" of any real value, and yet the newspapers in these cases merely printed as news the announcements of reputable physicians for what they might be worth, without taking the responsibility of expressing any opinion.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

THE HEART MUSCLE.

Perhaps some of my readers think I talk about the heart muscle too much, but when you stop to think about its job in your body, you must marvel at the magnitude of its work.

Just think that it pushes that blood stream—life stream—all through the body, so that every little individual cell in the remotest part of your body, will get its nourishment, and be able to give out to the stream its waste, so that it can be removed from the body.

And yet a muscle—a muscular pump—not any larger than your fist is doing that job for you.

Now somewhere away off in the body, some little obstruction occurs to some of the blood-vessels, perhaps some severe obstruction, such as a congestion in the lungs, pneumonia.

What happens to the heart?

Why, if the obstruction is slight, it simply pumps a little harder and a little faster, and so overcome it.

If the obstruction is severe it pumps even more strongly and faster, in its effort to overcome the obstruction, and maintain an even circulation to all parts.

And so if the heart is beating fast and hard, remember that it is looking after you as a faithful organ, and drawing on its reserve force, whenever, but only whenever, it is necessary.

Now, what is the point for you and me?

That if you have a leaking valve or other organic trouble, and yet go about your regular work or recreation without any trouble or symptoms, it shows that your heart, your heart muscle, is so strong that it can overcome any trouble that is present.

This is certainly very comforting.

On the other hand, you have no organic trouble, have passed an examination for insurance, and any physician who has examined you has said that your heart was sound.

But still you are beginning to find that you get out of breath walking at a pace that formerly never caused you any embarrassment in breathing.

You find that a little exertion seems to make you breathe rapidly, and your heart likewise beats faster.

This need not cause you any alarm but at the same time it is a straight warning to you that the heart muscle, as a muscle, is not as strong as it was, and needs toning up.

What causes this?

It may be due to an illness you've had that has damaged the muscle some, or it may be simply due to your own lack of work or exercise. The heart muscle needs it, just as your other muscles need it.

Carte Blanche

The carte blanche was a "blank paper" authenticated with an authoritative signature and entrusted to someone to be filled up as he may think best. Thus in 1649 Charles II tried to save his father's life by sending from The Hague to the parliament a signed carte blanche to be filled up with any terms which they would accept as the price of his safety.

GAS.

Gas for street lighting was first used in Pall Mall, London, 118 years ago tonight. A few experimental gas lights had previously been used in Golden Lane, but it was not until a few years later that gas lights were generally adopted in London streets.

The first attempt to introduce the use of gas in America was at Baltimore in 1816. The first project was unsuccessful. In 1822 it was introduced in Boston, and in the following year New York streets were lighted by gas. The system did not prove successful, however, until 1837. The use of gas spread rapidly to other cities in the U. S. and Canada. Rosin and oil were used for producing gas in the early days of the industry, but later cannell and Newcastle coal, and the Albert coal of Nova Scotia were used. Until half a century ago the price ranged up to $7 per thousand feet, the average being $3.50 per M.

JOHN D. JR.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will pass his fifty-first milestone tomorrow. He was born in Cleveland, Ohio, on January 29, 1874. He is a graduate of Brown University, which bestowed upon him the degree of A. B. immediately after completing his education he became associated with his father in the various financial and industrial enterprises in which the elder Rockefeller had his millions invested. He early became a leader in the Baptist Church which he attends in New York, which city is now his home. It would be very difficult for any one to find a list of donations to charities under Mr. Rockefeller's name, as all the charitable work of the family, which runs into millions annually, is done through the Rockefeller Foundation of which the younger Rockefeller, is of course, a director, and devotes a large portion of his time to its philanthropic activities.

ELIZABETH PETROVNA.

Remarkable in many ways, but chiefly for her scandalous immorality, was Elizabeth Petrovna Empress of Russia and daughter of Peter The Great. She reigned for twenty years. Her mother the Empress Catherine, was a native of Sweden, and the wife of a Swedish dragoon, the mistress of General Bauer and the laundress of Princess Mentchikoff, before her great beauty captivated Peter The Great, who made her his mistress, and later, spouse, and Empress of Russia.

Elizabeth Petrovna may well have inherited her immoral tendencies for her mother had many lovers. One of these was decapitated by order of Peter The Great, and his skull was mounted and placed in the czaretsa's sleeping-room, but a trifle like that did not deter her, nor affect her strong nerves. Elizabeth was so mortified by one of the jests of Frederick The Great, that she made war on the witty Prussian king, until her death. Russia was one of his enemies.

Sunday School Receives Flag

Admiral and Mrs. Higgins Present First Reformed Sunday School With Silk Flag at Impressive Patriotic Services Sunday.

At the Sunday school of the First Reformed Church Sunday, a most interesting patriotic service took place in which the school and a large number of visitors participated. The keen eye of Admiral Francis J. Higginson, a member of the church, recently caught sight of a staff in the balcony from which formerly was suspended the national flag. It had worn to shreds by age and was gone. The admiral and Mrs. Higginson purchased a new silk one to take the place of the old one. The school requested the donor to present it with a few remarks on Sunday, at the opening of the session. Cheerfully consenting to this Admiral Higginson gave the address that follows.

"I take pleasure in behalf of Mrs. Higginson and myself in presenting to you this beautiful silk flag, emblem of our country, emblem of all the heroic deeds which have made your country one of the greatest on this earth, great not only materially in its wealth and production but spiritually in its high purpose and its practice of the Golden Rule in its intercourse with other nations, a practice the foundation of which is laid in the millions of Sunday schools like this one throughout the land.

When you look upon this flag do not regard it simply as a piece of colored silk, but think of the rich inheritance it represents to you and of the obligation devolving upon you when you grow to manhood and womanhood to defend it and all that it represents from all disgrace or humiliation and to pass it on to succeeding generations unstained.

There are those who have fought and died for that flag, and if the call of duty to defend it comes to you in your life time you must do the same.

Hold this flag sacred. Salute it always with respect and defend it with your lives.

This flag is the emblem of your freedom and if you allow another to be substituted in its place you become slaves to the conqueror.

Better death than slavery.

So now we entrust it to your care, and as you grow in years we hope you will grow in loyality, devotion, and in respect for this flag of your country.

"We hope no such misfortune will ever befall you but should it come we look to you to follow in the example of your ancestors."

Master Lucas Boeve, by invitation, then presented it to Superintendent Oscar Edwards who accepted on behalf of the school with the following brief remarks:

"On behalf of the Sunday school of this church, it gives me great pleasure to accept this flag from you: especially as you have given your life to the service of your country, not only in times of peace, but in actual service when you were called upon to preserve this flag. Each Sunday at this hour, through the unselfish devotion of the teachers assembled here, they endeavor to instill in the minds and hearts of the scholars, the teachings and principles as revealed in the Word which goes toward the making of better boys and girls, men and women, thereby making better citizens to live under this flag and in this great country."

The Rev. Lucas Boeve, the minister then came forward and stated that to him personally this gift had a deep significance. By a strange coincidence, he stated a similar service was held in his Tarrytown Church at which Admiral Sigsbee made the address of presentation. Then Mr. Boeve called upon little ten year old Katrina Fischer to come forward. Holding her by the hand, he said he was so happy to have the granddaughter of Admiral Sigsbee, a member of this school at this time, and that another admiral also distinguished by service rendered in that same war, should now repeat, unknowingly, the kindly deed of his fellow officer some years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Boeve then pointed to the flag of the Christian Church a red cross on a field of blue on one end of the balcony, and to the stars and stripes on the other, and appealed to all to give their allegiance to both. "When we look at the Christian flag we think of Constantine the Great who is said to have seen that cross emblazoned on the skies and written under it were the words, 'By This Sign Conquer.' If we rally, as loyal soldiers, round the cross of Jesus Christ that onetime emblem of shame that has now become the emblem in which the Christian world glories, we shall always be loyal to that other wonderful flag, the most beautiful in all the world, and see to it that that flag because of the ideals it represents, shall never be dragged through the dust." The service closed with the singing of "America."

Curious How Folks Will React to Suggestion; They Will Glance at a Thermometer and React Accordingly—"The Dum Thing Ain't Right" Says Staggerer.

"Golly, but it's snappy," remarked the customer as he dropped into the barber shop after a hasty glance at the circular thermometer that hung just outside the shop door.

"Just another case of suggestion," remarked the busy barber as he tested the edge of the razor he was honing.

"What's that?" snapped the customer.

"It is curious how folks react to suggestion," continued the barber, "for I have noticed that when it was a sunshiny day and folks would come swinging along with their coats wide open and thinking how good it was to be alive. Then they would look at that thermometer and if it was registering only a few degrees above zero they would glance suspiciously about and then button up their coats and pull their hats more firmly down on their heads."

"I suppose they had their minds on other things and did not know it was so cold," argued the customer.

"Nope," retorted the barber "it was just another case of suggestion and speaking of that reminds me of a funny one that happened today. A fellow came staggering along and when he got in front of the shop he saw the thermometer hanging there and after looking at it he pulled out his watch and glanced at it and then looked at the thermometer.

"I could see him shaking his head and then I heard him mutter to himself 'That dum thing ain't right anyway,' and he shook his head reproachfully at the thermometer, as he put his watch back in his pocket and went staggering down the street."

"What did you think of the eclipse?" asked the customer as the barber paused.

"The most wonderful sight I ever saw in my life," replied the barber enthusiastically. He continued "I was standing out in the street with a [illegible] of other [illegible] smoked glass when some one standing near me said 'Are those Lalley's Beads?'

BLACK SQUEALER'S PARTY

Little Black Squealer decided he would have a party.

"Will you come, squeal, squeal?" he asked Miss Ham.

"Thank you, grunt, grunt," said Miss Ham. "I'll be pleased."

"Will you come, Grandfather Porky Pig, squeal, squeal?" he asked.

"Ah, yes, grunt, grunt," said Grandfather Porky, "your dear old grandfather will do you the great honor of coming to your party."

"Will you come, squeal, squeal?" asked Little Black Squealer of Mrs. Pink Pig and Master Pink Pig and of his mother.

"Squeal, squeal, grunt, grunt," they all said, "we will come with pleasure.

"We will be with you, and you can count on us, as people say."

"Will you come, Sir Benjamin Bacon?"

"Grunt, grunt, I accept your kind invitation," said Sir Benjamin.

"Will you come, Sir Percival?" Little Black Squealer asked.

"I will come," said Sir Percival Pork. "Yes, yes, I will come, grunt, grunt."

"Will you come Brother Bacon?" Little Black Squealer asked. "Squeal, squeal, will you come?"

Brother Bacon twisted his tail and said:

"With delight, with delight. Grunt, grunt, with delight."

"Will you come, squeal, squeal, Sammy Sausage?"

"Indeed I will, grunt, grunt," said Sammy Sausage.

"And Pinky Pig, how about you?"

"I'm your pig gentleman when it comes to a party," he answered.

"But," said Miss Ham, "when is the party to take place?"

"Oh, yes, Little Black Squealer, when are you going to have your party?" asked Grandfather Porky Pig.

"You forgot to tell us the date," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"You didn't mention that," said Master Pink Pig.

"We must know," said Master Pink Pig's mother.

"I hope it is to be soon," said Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"That would be pleasant," said Sir Percival Pork.

"When is the big event to be?" asked Brother Bacon.

"Yes, when is the party to come off?" asked Sammy Sausage.

"I must keep the day free and not go to market that day," said Pinky Pig's mother, and Pinky Pig said:

"I'll come and bring my merry little appetite. But when is the date of your party?"

"Well," he said, "I decided I would have a party. But I haven't decided just when my party would take place."

"But that is most important," all the pigs said.

"Of course it is most important," said Little Black Squealer.

"Shall we name a date for you?" asked Grandfather Porky. "I think it would be nice to have it soon, then all the other pigs should return your charming hospitality—all save myself.

"For an old grandfather is doing enough of an honor to come to these functions."

"Well, I thought of having you all name the day for me," said Little Black Squealer.

"I thought you could all name the day which would be convenient for all of you to bring the food. I thought it would be one where every one entered into the spirit of the thing and each brought something—a regular picnic in other words.

"But I'll be the chief one to plan the picnic party and it will be in my part of the pen."

"Why, the very idea," said Miss Ham, "he was going to have us bring the party." And she walked off.

"Never have I heard of such nerve," said Sammy Sausage.

"Well, he can't do that sort of a thing with us," said Brother Bacon.

"The child has no manners," grunted Grandfather Porky. And he strutted off in his great fat fashion, but looked at Little Black Squealer out of his small eyes.

And his look said quite plainly:

"Of all the nerve—! Well—!"

Every one had walked off now. And the party was off, too. Little Black Squealer's idea hadn't worked well in the pen.

GAS BUGGIES—It's Easier Said Than Done.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

We do not know how cheap the seeds of happiness are, or we would scatter them oftener.

LEFTOVER FOODS

It takes real thought and planning to use the leftovers in a palatable way. After company dinners there will always be some foods left and "that nothing be wasted," try some of the following:

Mexican Hash.—Take two cupfuls of stuffing or any that is left, add an equal amount of bread crumbs, any leftover corn, salt and pepper to taste. Moisten the ingredients with leftover gravy, put into a baking dish and bake until well heated through.

Salad.—Take two cupfuls of diced white meat of chicken, goose or turkey of any portion, one cupful of diced celery, one cupful of drained cooked peas, one-half cupful of shredded almonds, one-fourth cupful of chopped pickles, one tablespoonful of oil, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, a dash of red pepper. Let stand to season until ready to serve, then serve on lettuce leaves with a boiled dressing.

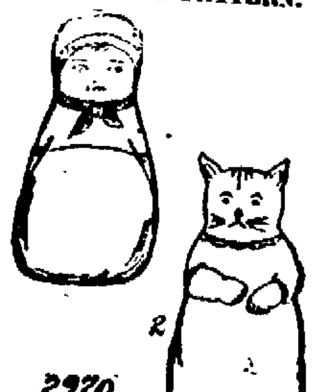

Cranberry and Cottage Cheese.—Put any stewed cranberry sauce through a sieve; if thick enough to mold pour into small molds; if not, add a bit of gelatin. Unmold and serve with a mold of well-seasoned cottage cheese and a spoonful of thick mayonnaise.

Chicken Soup With Rice.—Cut all the meat from the bones of the fowl and chop fine. Put the bones into a kettle, breaking them; add cold water to cover, at least two quarts. Simmer slowly for two hours. Add one cupful of boiled rice to the meat and pound together to a pulp. Strain the broth into this, then stir well and put through a puree sieve. When ready to serve bring to the boiling point, add one cupful of cream, season with a teaspoonful of salt and a dash or two of cayenne.

Potato Croquettes.—Season leftover mashed potato with a pinch of mace, salt and pepper if needed. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of onion juice, one beaten egg yolk, a sprig or two of finely minced parsley and mix well. Roll into balls or long rolls, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve garnished with sprigs of fresh parsley.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Set of Pleasing Toys for the Nursery.

2970. Here is a comfortable roly poly doll and a cunning cat. Toweling stuffed with cork would make these models floating toys. Plush, felt, flannel, outing flannel, velvet, drill and crash could also be used. The doll could be made of different material below the arms.

The pattern is cut in one size. Either style requires ¾ yard of 27 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

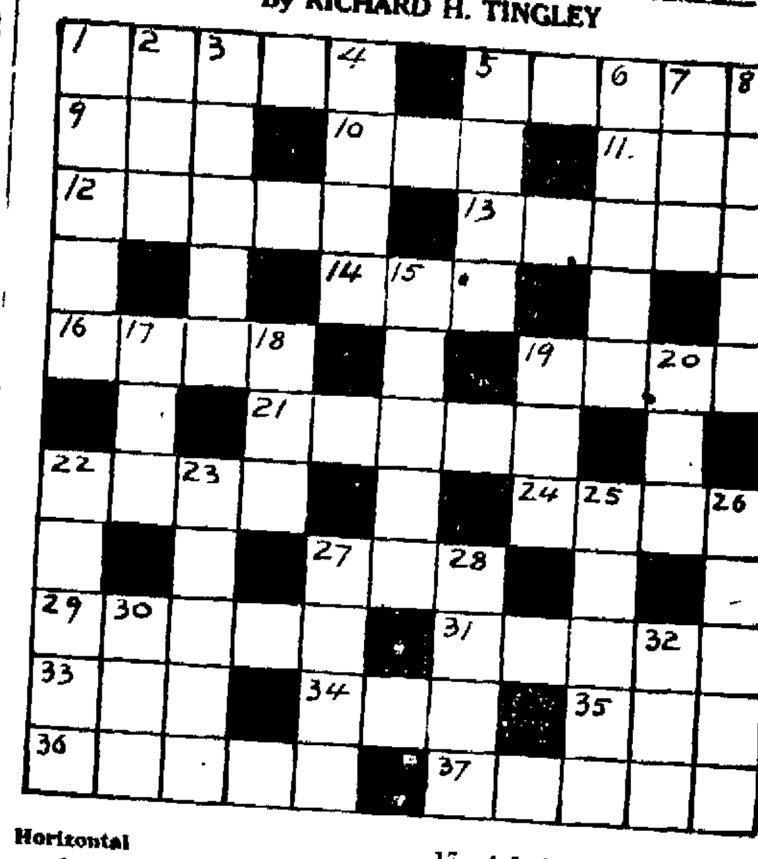

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date fall and winter 1924-1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and [illegible] ing, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

Warning
Shun All Sneezes

Colds are spread by coughs and sneezes. Be careful if you have one. Shun all sneezes if you haven't.

Colds are dangerous. None can foretell what they will lead to. Millions are wrecked by them.

It is easy at the start to quell a cold. It should never last over a day.

You can stop it in 24 hours with Hill's Cascara-Bromide-Quinine. Many thousands do that daily.

The tablets are so sure that your druggist guarantees them. So reliable that millions now employ them. So perfect that 25 years have developed no way to improve them.

Colds Fever Grippe

Big C. E. Rally Here on Feb. 3

Tuesday evening, February 3, the Ulster County Christian Endeavor Union will hold a rally in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church at 8 o'clock. The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. W. A. Dalton of the Highland Presbyterian Church. The Madolin Club of Highland, under the leadership of Mrs. Florence Blakeley Clearwater, will render a number of musical selections. The public is invited to attend the rally.

The first Christian Endeavor Society was organized in 1881 in Portland, Maine, and the rally here on February 3, is to celebrate that event and the progress made by Christian Endeavor throughout the world. It is expected that every C. E. Society in the county will be represented at the rally.

Kelly Called To New York

By Telegraph to The Freeman

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 28.—Summoned by Judge Landis, George Kelly of the New York Giants will leave tomorrow for New York to appear before the district attorney for questioning in regard to the Dolan-O'Connell baseball scandal.

Johnny Couch of the Phillies is already on his way to New York.

Whether Jimmy O'Connell has left for the East could not be learned today. He was reported to have disappeared from Boyes Springs, near here, where he was spending a few days. O'Connell refused to answer telegrams or telephone calls for several days and has been in hiding.

Willie Cunningham of the Boston Braves, who became involved in the investigation of the scandal when he was reported to have given a new version of the affair, was on the way to recovery today in the hospital following an operation Tuesday for appendicitis.

State to Pay Grade Teachers

Is Bill Introduced in the Legislature—Republican Leaders to Discuss Bill With Regents' Board.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The salaries of all grade school teachers in the state would be paid entirely by the state, under a bill introduced in the Legislature today by Assemblyman Jenks, Republican, of Broome. Republican leaders of the Legislature are planning to discuss this proposal with members of the state board of regents at a meeting here tomorrow.

At present the state pays a large share of the teachers salaries. Assemblyman Jenks said he believed the salaries could be paid by the state without levying a direct tax.

JUDGE PARKER HOST TO JURISTS AT DINNER

Judge Alton B. Parker was host Tuesday night at a dinner at the Metropolitan Club, Fifth avenue and Sixtieth street, New York city, attended by justices and former justices of the First Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Judge Parker was serving in this court when he was nominated, in 1897, for chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

The only guest at the dinner who had not served on the First Appellate Division bench was Elihu Root. Those present included John Proctor Clarke, presiding justice; Justices Victor J. Dowling, Edgar S. K. Merrell, Edward R. Finch, John V. McAvoy, Francis Martin and William P. Burr and Morgan J. O'Brien, former presiding justice of the Appellate Division; Nathan L. Miller, former governor of New York; Frank C. Laughlin, Alfred R. Page and Clarence J. Shearn.

Cold Even in Honolulu.

A picture postal showing a mass of blooms of the Night Blooming Cereus running over a wall was received from Dr. Mary Gage-Day today. The post card bore the date of Honolulu, January 16th, and Dr. Day says "Some of the walls are just covered with this plant. People here say it is very cold, but the flowers in great numbers are everywhere. I never saw such beautiful ones. It is a wonderful place."

Assassinations in Russia.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

London, Jan. 28.—Assassinations of Soviet officials in Russia are piling up at an alarming rate, according to advices received today by the anti-Soviet Morning Post, which stated that there were 63 political murders in December alone. Hunger riots and rebellions were reported in Ukraine and the Crimea, the dispatch said.

Sentenced for 45 Days.

Sam Jones, colored, of Glasco came back to the county jail for forty-five days when could not raise the necessary $45 fine imposed by Justice of the Peace Webber, when Sam was found guilty of failing to pay a board bill. Jones was taken before the justice Tuesday morning and given his choice of 45 days in jail or $45.

Fleeing Bandit Killed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Jan. 28.—One of five bandits who overpowered and robbed Israel Chornick in his jewelry store today and fled with gems valued at $5,000 was shot and killed by a policeman. Another bandit was captured after a running pistol fight.

An Ambulance Call.

Amos Stern was removed from his home, 165 North Front street, this morning in the ambulance to the Kingston City Hospital.

Lauds Work of State Troopers

New York Press Emphasizes Protective Influence in Rural Regions of State Constabulary—Present Personnel Too Limited.

Under the caption, "Our Mounted Police," the New York Herald-Tribune today prints the following editorial:

How well the State Constabulary functioned during 1924 is indicated in a recent report showing 22,932 arrests. This state is fortunate in having such a protective influence, especially in the rural regions, where law enforcement at one time meant nothing to some individuals, who terrorized communities and regarded themselves as above the statutes.

Poachers, timber thieves and violators of the game laws bulldozed the local authorities in the Adirondacks and Catskills prior to the coming of the well-set-up youngsters in the gray and purple of the state police. In some instances it required a show-down before the desperadoes yielded to the new order of affairs.

Much the same spirit pervades the ranks of the organization, which had for its original commander Colonel George Fletcher Chandler, as is found in the Northwest Mounted Police of Canada—a body of men known the world over for their daring and devotion to duty. Though the state police do not have so large a field to cover as do their prototypes across the border, they pursue the same policy and get the man they go after.

But, useful as the state police have been in many ways, they have made friends particularly by the manner in which they enforce the rules of the road. They have made the highways safer, and in an era of constantly increasing travel by automobile given ample evidences of the fact that they are picked men, chosen for other qualities than brawn. That the public has respect for the individual as well as the uniform is evidenced daily.

Major Warner has good reason to be proud of his men and the day is not far distant when their efficiency and usefulness will win an appeal from the people of this commonwealth for another addition to the altogether too limited personnel of the present force.

LEAPS TO DEATH OVER NIAGARA FALLS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 28.—"God and everyone forgive me, for I, Mr. Nicholas Iverson, know not whence I go or what I do."

Leaving a card bearing these words on the sidewalk near Prospect Park Point early this afternoon, a man believed to be Nicholas Iverson, New York bottling works proprietor, mounted the guard rail and leaped to his death over Niagara Falls. The leap was seen by Peter Kapanoski of Niagara Falls. He was too far away to prevent the man from taking the leap. Search for the body is now on. Besides the note and a business card bearing the name of "Nicholas Iverson," the man left behind a bunch of keys and a pocket book.

Stone Takes Witness Stand

Appears Before Senate Committee to Defend His Professional Record Against Criticism by Political Enemies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Harlan F. Stone named to the supreme court by President Coolidge, took the witness stand in his own defense today before the Senate judiciary committee to defend his professional record against Senatorial criticism. Stone appeared first at a secret session to explain his former legal activities for J. Pierpont Morgan and his reported intention as attorney general to reindict Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Opposition to these two phases of Stone's legal record has blocked confirmation of his appointment to the supreme court.

Stone said he ordered a special investigation of the indictments brought against Wheeler in Montana last year as he had succeeded Harry Daugherty as attorney general.

Stone flatly charged that the evidence showed a conspiracy to defraud the government of its oil lands.

"I appointed William K. Donovan to examine the Wheeler evidence as news matter, to investigate it thoroughly and to report to me his conclusions," said Stone "He reported his conclusions about December 1. The evidence indicated a conspiracy to fradulently secure oil and gas prospect permits in Montana. The acts of this conspiracy occurred at the seat of government and it was necessary for me to proceed in the case in the courts of the District of Columbia."

Stone said he decided to give Wheeler an opportunity to appear before the District of Columbia grand jury to explain his connection with case and to call Wheeler's witnesses before the grand jury.

This decision, Stone added, led to an exchange of letters with Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Democrat, Montana, who had acted as counsel for Wheeler.

"It was not an attempt to transfer the old case from the Montana courts to the District of Columbia courts." It was a brand new case and I told Senator Walsh so."

Stone said the case would be laid before a grand jury here on February 2nd

In the midst of Stone's statement, Senator Wheeler entered the room. He sat facing Stone across the committee table.

Stone declared the department of justice "had no intention" to withdraw the Montana case against Wheeler. He said that all such reports were false.

Stone said he had issued subpoenas for all the witnesses. He added that three of the witnesses would have to waive immunity when they appeared before the grand jury.

Walsh angrily questioned the attorney general as to whether he had had any evidence different from that used against Wheeler in Montana.

"It involves features not involved in the Montana case and witnesses not called there," Stone replied.

"It does involve many of the same witnesses," Walsh demanded.

"Yes, many of them," Stone admitted.

"Oh, yes," Walsh said angrily, "a thousand crimes may have been committed but I want to know whether you could have brought the proceedings in Montana on the evidence that you have."

"I don't care to answer," Stone replied.

Odds and Ends

There will be an entertainment at the Albany Avenue Baptist Church on February 24. Included on the entertainment program will be the Swiss Bell Ringers.

The ladies of Circle No 1 of the First Presbyterian Church will meet in the church parlors on Thursday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

The Past Noble Grand Club of Colonial Rebekah Lodge will hold a social party at the home of Mrs. Mary B. Osterhoudt, 36 Lindsley avenue on February 4, from 2 to 4 o'clock. Games and other amusements will be enjoyed. A good time is promised.

Crime Continues In Syracuse

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 28.—One holdup in which a man was severely beaten, a burglary, an attempt to rob a jewel shop and a half a dozen unsuccessful store and house robberies, comprised the night's record, as Chief Cadin exerted every effort to quell the wave of crime.

Gerald Murphy, 22, of New York, was being held by the police for questioning in the series of safe crackings, particularly the four which occurred over the week-end.

Society Notes

The Lowell Club will entertain the Federation of Women's Clubs at the next open meeting, the first Saturday in February. The club has prepared an unusually delightful program. Miss Noone will give readings from Barrie which will be followed by a social hour and the serving of refreshments. As it is some time since there has been this kind of a social program, The Lowell Club hopes for a very large attendance, and especially reminds all individual members that a particularly cordial welcome is extended to them.

Lowell Club.

The Lowell Club met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Adams. Mrs. W. L. Steiner had the paper for the day on "Business Prospects in South America." This pertinent and valuable paper was followed by a sketch, "Leading Men of Affairs," given by Mrs. Van Buren. The roll call was "Birds Indigenous to South and Central America."

A Birthday Party.

A birthday party was held at the home of Elizabeth Smith, 122 Ten Broeck avenue on Saturday, January 24, in honor of her eighth birthday. Games were enjoyed by all. At five o'clock a bounteous repast was served. Those present were. Ruth Leipold, Joan Coughlin, Janet Schornstheimer, Gloria Schrader, Bunny Gregg, Delores Wingert, Marion Schwenk, Elizabeth Smith and Reta Ummerle. All departed wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Baxter-Fox.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. E. Fox of Rosendale when her daughter, Miss Jennie Fox was united in marriage to Clyde L. Baxter of Rosendale. The Rev. Francis O'Reilly of St. Peter's Church officiated. The bride's attendant was her sister, Miss Mayme Fox. Angus Robertson of Yonkers a friend of the groom, acted as best man. After the ceremony a bounteous dinner was served to the immediate families of the bridal couple, after which Mr. and Mrs. Baxter left for New York city visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Stephens, grandparents of the groom. Upon returning home the newlyweds were given a reception at the home of the groom's parents. After an enjoyable evening the many guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Baxter years of happiness. They were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Schwab Ordered To Pay $100

To Ulster Garage, Sentence Being Suspended—Jury Hears Testimony in Assault Case.

Edwin Schwab, inducted by the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny, in passing a bad check, on the Ulster Garage, Ltd., of this city, changed his former plea of not guilty to that of guilty in county court this morning. Schwab, who gave his residence as Poughkeepsie, was represented by Roscoe Ellsworth. On his agreement to make restitution in the sum of $100 and in view of the fact that the complainant did not wish to press the charge, imposition of sentence was suspended with the understanding that he would make good before the opening of court in April. At the opening of court he will appear and report.

The trial of Leonardo Altizio of Highland on a charge of assault, second degree, was taken up. A jury was secured late Tuesday evening.

This morning court was recessed until 11:15 when the court was called to order at 10 o'clock in order to allow witnesses to arrive and also as the court room was cold. The sheriff found it impossible to heat the room to a comfortable temperature on account of the cold which was driven in by the high wind during the night.

Altizio is charged with assaulting John Snyder, garage keeper, with a screwdriver. Snyder had repaired a truck for Altizio and when Altizio sent his son to get it Snyder refused to release the truck until the repair bill had been paid. This he did on advice of his attorney A. W. Lent of Highland. Altizio keeps a store near Highland.

Snyder runs a garage on the Highland-Clintondale road about three miles from Highland and had done work for Altizio before.

Mr. Snyder and witnesses claim that Altizio came to the garage with the son and demanded the car. Snyder refused and an argument followed in which Altizio called Snyder names. Snyder was at work on a car and turned to Altizio and told him to cease calling him names. He turned again to his work on the car and as he was stooped over the defendant picked up a screwdriver from the fender of the car on which Snyder was at work and struck him on the arm injuring him and tearing his shirt. Snyder saw Altizio in the act of striking and turned to avoid the blow. He had no weapon in his hand and made no attempt to strike defendant according to the witnesses.

A brother-in-law of Snyder, Mr. Beatty, heard the argument at his home some distance away and ran to the scene. He saw the assault and as Altizio turned in his direction the witness testified he picked up a rock to defend himself. Another witness who was near saw the attempt to assault Snyder and said he had tried to catch hold of Altizio's arm and prevent the assault but was not successful. He was a friend of both Snyder and Altizio.

At 12:30 a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

Water Denizen That Has Few Vital Organs

The little creature called the lancelot is slender and pointed at both ends and not very easy to see, since it is almost transparent and is only from an inch and a half to two and a half inches in length.

It lives in shallow water and likes to stick its head end into the sand, into which it burrows with great rapidity. It remains thus for a long time with its tail sticking out. When on the surface of the water it lies on its side.

While it can neither see nor hear, there is reason for believing that it possesses the senses of smell and taste. Its eggs are laid about sunset and the larvae hatch out early the next morning.

The lancelot has no head. Moreover, it has neither legs nor pairs of fins. It has a mouth, however, placed at one end, which, therefore, may be called the head end of the body.

It has a stomach, a very simple form of liver and another simple organ which takes the place of a heart, since it is capable of contracting and thus forcing the blood, which is quite colorless, forward to the area of the gills, where it is purified.—Review of Reviews.

Business Now Made of Producing Spider Silk

Spider farming is one of the little known industries of modern times. The end in view is not the intensive fighting of the fly peril, but the production of spider silk, than which there is nothing better for the cross lines of surveying and other instruments.

Supplies in vastly larger quantities are needed for the manufacture of spider-silk stockings, and it is to meet this demand that special spider farms have been started from time to time, says Tit-Bits.

It is no easy matter to keep and feed the spiders, to prevent them from engaging in mortal combat, and to collect their silk in suitable form. The process of "silking" the spider amounts to playing catchball, with the spider as ball. In its passage through the air the spider instinctively pays out silk, and it can be induced to part with a hundred yards or more during a succession of such flights.

Conquered Many Tongues

The eighth, the "learned blacksmith," was bestowed upon Elihu Burritt, the American reformer, author and linguist. He began life as a blacksmith about 1827, and worked at that trade for many years, during which time he made himself proficient in ancient and modern languages. It is said that he acquired a mastery of 18 languages and 22 dialects.—Kansas City Star.

LATEST NEWS OF NEW YORK STATE FARM ORGANIZATIONS

Prepared for This Paper by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, Ithaca, N. Y.

Must Revise New York Tax System, McKenzie Says

"The Tax Laws need revision because, as they now stand, an unfair share of the burden falls upon the farmer; he is not only receiving less than his share of the national income but he is paying more than his share of the taxes and so is being ground between the upper and the nether millstones." This was the opening gun in a radio speech on Jan. 26 from station WGY, Schenectady, by H. C. McKenzie, tax expert for the New York State Farm Bureau federation.

Mr. McKenzie took up in order the need of a general revision of the tax laws, the state general property tax, the proposed gasoline tax, and school taxes.

"State and local taxes have grown like Jonah's gourd and of these it is the general property tax that hits the farmer hardest," he said. "In thirty-four states for which data is available for 1921 the amount raised by the general property tax has gone up from $924,000,000 in 1912 to $2,256,000,000 in 1921 and is still rising. School and road taxes make up the bulk of the local budget. There are districts in New York where the school tax rate alone is $65.000 per thousand of assessed valuation.

"On dairy farms in Chenango county the average receipts, less business expenses, other than taxes, in 1921, amounted to $795 per farm. Land taxes were $161.00 or 20 per cent income. This left $634.00 to reimburse the farmer for his labor, for his family, and for the use of a capital of $12,943.

"The general property tax is general only in name and under it more property escapes than is taxed; exemptions of real estate amount to 20 per cent and more; most tangible personal property escapes, by exemption or otherwise; and no state relying on this tax has more than 10 per cent of its intangibles on the tax rolls. The result is that in the main the burden has been borne by less than half the property of the state.

"The most deplorable effects, however, will be upon the character of the country population; unless rural conditions change the character of the population is bound to deteriorate. Those three bulwarks of civilization, the country church, the country home and the country school are bound to suffer. We can get along with fewer people in the country but we cannot afford to lower the quality.

"We are going to get a gasoline tax this winter; the only question is whether it will be in addition to the present license tax or as a substitute for the license tax; it is a rough measure of road use and in connection with the license tax is probably as good a method as has been devised.

"No more state or county bonds should be issued for road building; these bonds are paid, principle and interest, by the general property tax; already we have issued $200,000,000 of these bonds which have all to be paid by a tax on one-third of the property of the state; this is also true of canal bonds, hospital bonds, park bonds, bonus bonds and all the rest."

G. L. F. Shareholders to Attend Annual Meeting

Stockholders of the Co-operative G. L. F. Exchange will meet in Saratoga Springs on Feb. 2 for the annual meeting of that farmers' buying organization. The meeting will be held at Convention hall, where the State Grange meets the day following.

Three directors on the board of nine will be elected at this meeting. Nominations have been made as follows: E. J. Walrath of Evans Mills, a member of the New York State Grange, Order of Patrons of Husbandry, to succeed himself; N. F. Webb of Cortland, a member of the Dairymen's League Co-operative association, Inc., to succeed himself, and Arthur L. Smith of DeRuyter, a member of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, to succeed himself.

N. F. Webb, president, and H. E. Babcock, general manager, will report to the shareholders on the progress and business of their organization which is now the biggest farmers' buying organization in this country. A report by a certified public accountant on the finances of the Exchange will also be made.

In the evening Commissioner Berne A. Pyrke will address the shareholders, giving an outsider's viewpoint on the G. L. F. accomplishments and possibilities.

Fruit Growers Attend Three-Day Meeting.

The New York State Horticultural society meet at Rochester on Jan. 14, 15 and 16 for the seventieth annual meeting of the association.

Crowded sessions during the three-day meeting were devoted to discussions of a technical nature on fruit growing led by experts in the fields. Among the speakers were Hon. Seymour J. Lowman, lieutenant governor; Lloyd Tenny of the United States department of agriculture; R. H. Roberts of the University of Wisconsin, and E. C. Auchter of the University of Maryland.

Ingenious Dutch

Freight and passengers both are handled on an abandoned street car line in put to good use in Amsterdam by an ingenious combination "train" composed of a motor truck and a surface car trailer.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 28.—The spectacular rise of wheat prices at the principal trading centers of the United States and Canada and the continuation of the forward movement in prices of leading oil stocks were the principal developments in the financial markets today. Nominal activity and narrow price movements prevailed in the cotton, commodity and foreign exchange markets.

Industrial stocks were supplied to the market at price concessions in the first hour or two, but the supply of cheap stocks soon became exhausted and activity in these stocks slowed down considerably.

After declining to 125¾ for a loss of 1 point, United States Steel pushed upward to above 127, carrying with it the independent steel stocks, which, however, were comparatively inactive.

The oil stocks staged an aggressive forward movement in which practically all of the listed standard and independent oil stocks participated.

The advance of Standard Oil of New Jersey to 45 brought the price to the highest level since the stock was split up in 1922. Pacific Oil's rise to above 64 was no less spectacular, and Sinclair, an unusually heavy trading, rose to 22½. In the financial district it was estimated that more than a third of the total transactions today were in oil stocks.

A few of the railroad stocks were in demand at slightly higher prices, but as a group the railroad stocks were neglected.

The Trying Fascists.

Mortimer Schiff, the noted New York capitalist, was talking about the Fascists in Italy.

"The Fascists think," he said, "that whatever they do is right. This attitude on their part is certainly very trying.

"The Fascists remind me of the lady who wished to open an account with a department store. They asked her for a reference, and she gave the name of Charles M. Schwab.

"But Mr. Schwab, it turned out, didn't know the lady, and so, when she called at the store again, the credit man said to her:

"'I'm sorry to tell you, madam, that your reference is unsatisfactory.'

"'Well, now, that's a surprise to me,' said the lady. 'I always thought Charles M. Schwab's financial standing was above reproach.'"

The Change

"Times have changed," said old Festus Pester. "In the good old days of yore, when a wagon broke down in the road we used to gather around it and put in several hours apiece inquiring how the contretemps occurred, sympathizing with the owner of the vehicle and recalling and describing in the most minute detail sundry incidents of similar character which had transpired in the past. But nowadays when a motorcar blows out a tire we go right on. Eh-yah!—times have changed, and for the worse. Most people these days have no more sympathy than so many snapping turtles."—Kansas City Star.

Ancient Carvings Discovered

Carvings on rocks recently discovered in the Libyan desert of Africa indicate that the Bakuma and South African bushmen met in Europe in the stone age.

Positive Proof That Woman Had Been Poor

She looked rich and acted rich, because she had married a rich man, yet at least one woman at the tea party, says a writer in the New York Times, discovered that she had once been poor. "Take it from me," she said "there was a time, not so very long ago, when she was as poor as the rest of us."

"How did you discover that?" inquired her neighbor.

"Because she knew where I keep all my housekeeping things. She knew that the tea caddy was in the writing desk, that the cheese biscuits and other edibles beloved of mice were in that box under the sofa, that the alcohol for my stove was in the corner behind the washstand, that the butter and milk were on the window ledge and that the eggs and other foods were in a box on the bottom shelf of the wardrobe. When we were cooking she went straight to the spot and got every one of those things without asking once where they were, which is something that a person who had not kept house in one room could never have done."

Getting the True Light

Frequent consideration of a thing wears off the strangeness of it, and shows it in its several lights and various ways of appearance, to the view of the mind.

Educators Tell Of Education

Dr. Michael and Principal Van Ingen Stress Importance of Character Building in Interesting Talks at First Dutch Church Sunday.

"Education week" was fittingly observed last Sunday evening in the Old First Dutch Church with two addresses that were of the highest character as well as timely. The first was by Professor B. C. Van Ingen, principal of the hight school. The pastor, introducing the speaker, stated that it was a kind Providence that had brought Mr. Van Ingen here to teach a certain branch of learning and then prepare the way for the greater service, when the vacancy came, of principalship.

Mr. Van Ingen, in his fifteen-minute address, stressed the importance, in all education, of character building. And in the building of character he had constantly felt, in his educational work, the need of the cooperation of church with the schools. In many communities these days the schools dismiss their pupils for an hour a week, and send them to the churches, where they are being instructed in religion and in the Bible according to the best pedagogical requirements. This subject is emphasized at all educational conventions. It is the sober reaction from the wave of juvenile crime that is sweeping over us. Education without character building is incomplete.

Doctor Myron J. Michael, superintendent of schools, and for thirty years connected in administrative capacity with the schools of Kingston, spoke first of his affection for the "little red school" of his youth, and yet, how anachronous and utterly inadequate that little school is in this progressive age. He related his visit to California in 1922. How he found the splendidly centralized and consolidated schools, properly graded and departmentalizeed to the highest point of efficiency. How children from the remote districts were conveyed to the centralized school and there given the same advantages as the child in the city. And then to think that within ten miles of this city we have schools that cost for maintenance two thousand dollars per year, and have three pupils. And this in the wealthiest and most populous state in the union. Dr. Michael hoped for the day in which all the children shall enjoy the same privileges as do those of the larger villages and cities like Kingston. He then spoke of the material advantages of the educated person as compared with him, who must depend upon his hands merely as his means of support. That consideration is comparatively unimportant as an end. Think of the field of literature, of art, of the sciences, history, philosophy, open to the educated mind, closed to the uneducated. How the life becomes enriched, ennobled by education. With an Isaiah the student thinks God's thoughts after him. With a Shakespeare he fathoms the profoundest depths and with a Kepler he walks among the stars of Heaven. Now the world had had educated criminals. Training of the mind without the training of the heart, the conscience, produces an unbalanced character. The two brilliant students in the University of Chicago last year, could murder an innocent boy for the sake of a thrill. Respect for man and God were lacking. The religion of the fathers with its demand for the love of God and for one's neighbor, had been ruthlessly trodden under foot. The doctor closed with an unusually strong editorial taken from a Los Angeles journal appealing for a return to the religion of our fathers.

Leacock Kept Audience Merry

In spite of the intense cold of Tuesday night, a large audience greeted Stephen Leacock, generally thought of as "The Canadian Mark Twain," as he delivered his lecture on "Frenzied Fiction," at the High School Auditorium.

A rarely genial man, with that balance of mind that senses the absurd, the droll, the humorous from every angle, Mr. Leacock, who is Professor of Political Economy at McGill University, Canada, when he is not making people laugh, and who was introduced by Dr. Michael Tuesday evening, kept his audience in a state of laughter throughout his lecture. The only complaint heard, that the lecture was too short.

Besides being a mighty clever lecturer, Mr. Leacock is an excellent actor, which adds greatly to what he says.

He gave his hearers three strata of Frenzied Fiction, that from the days of Scott, Cooper, etc., on for some eighty years; the period of "Fragile" heroines. Then a lay of adventure finance, usually of our Rocky mountains, with the athletic heroine and the "Self-contained hero," and covering the next twenty years; finally the Frenzied Fiction of our own day. His presentation of today's novel with the "Other Man's Wife," and "The Other Woman's Husband," playing the leading roles until the husband of the other woman appears, ending in a general shooting-up of one or two or all three of them, was so funny that no one who heard Mr. Leacock will ever again be able seriously to even attempt to read such a piece of fiction.

Just as humorous was his advice to enter the literary field to write a purely "Crime" novel, by leaving out the heroine entirely, as she always messes up such a novel hopelessly.

In introducing Mr. Leacock, Dr. Michael said that the people of Kingston were greatly indebted to the Federation of Women's Clubs for bringing two such lecturers as Stefansson and Stephen Leacock to our city, and the truth of those remarks was the more evident at the close of he lecture.

Coffey Knocks Out Skinner

Local Welterweight Scored Fourth Knockout—Union Hill Fans Turn Out Strong for Coffey.

Vince Coffey scored his fourth straight knockout the other night at Union Hill, N. J., when he flattened Joe Skinner of New York in the fourth round of a scheduled ten round bout at the Amsterdam Hall.

Coffey's left hook sent Skinner to the mat and later in the same round a right to the jaw tumbled the New Yorker face down to the canvas, when the bout was stopped.

The local boxer took it easy at the start and the bout looked as if it would be furiously fought to the finish. Coffey is said to be in wonderful form and is the idol of Union Hill. The supporters of Coffey from the Union Hill section, tax the sporting clubs, when he is on the card.

The regular preliminary game will be staged and dancing and refreshments will be enjoyed following the main event.

LANGFORD STILL LOOKING FOR HIS PROCEEDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—George E Brower, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, stated today that he would appoint a committee to look into the case of Sam Langford, who has not yet received the proceeds of a benefit staged for him last summer by the National Sports Alliance. James J. Johnston, president of the Alliance, has explained the situation by declaring that the Alliance fund for disabled boxers is held in trust by a local bank and that special influence must be exerted to obtain its release.

Whereabouts of Dolan Unknown

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—According to reports from several sectors of the Broadway front, Albert Cozy Dolan, one of the star witnesses in the official probe of the baseball scandal, his slipped into town without so much as giving the district attorney a formal nod.

The latter, through one of his assistants, George Brothers, is conducting an inquiry into Jimmy O'Connell's ill-fated attempt to bribe Heine Sand and is very anxious to find out whether Dolan still forgets to remember, as he did when questioned by Judge Landis.

The prosecutor is waiting patiently for Mr. Dolan to respond to his invitation to appear before him. Mr. Dolan has neglected to do so. But several habitues of Broadway's theatrical district claim to have seen Dolan within the last 24 hours, ensconsed in his old haunts without apparent attempt at concealment.

It is also said that he has had a conference with his attorney, William J. Fallon, but this could not be verified.

There is an air of mystery to the entire business. One story had it that Dolan left his home in Oshkosh, Wisconsin, several days ago. His wife is said to have confessed ignorance of his present whereabouts but intimated, according to the story, that he might be found in Chicago. There the trail apparently ends, unless the Broadway scouts have actually picked up the lost heel prints.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—Lou Talaber, middleweight wrestling champion, retained his title today. He defeated Joe Parelli, former champion, in two straight falls here last night, the first fall with a reverse double wrist lock in 1:31:16 and the same hold in taking the second fall in 7:50.

Early Shaving Implements

According to Heredotus, the Egyptians shaved continually, and only let the hair and beard grow when they were in mourning. The barber of the ancient Egyptians was known as the haq. He employed various instruments. A razor sometimes in the shape of a small short hatchet with a recurved handle, and other instruments shaped like a knife were most generally used.

League Leaders Here Tonight

This evening, at the local armory court the Kingston team of the Metropolitan League will face probably the strongest opposition in the Metropolitan League, when the Brooklyn quintet plays here.

Kingston now in third place will have to add a number of wins shortly, if it is to be in the running for second half honors. As winners of the first half race, the Morgenweckers had a splendid record on foreign courts a duplication of which now seems impossible.

Out of the last seven games played the Visitations have captured six and are out strong to add more. In the lineup of the Brooklynites new faces will be seen in the persons of Eddie White, a veteran of the court and McDonald, a youngster, who has been going strong.

With the exception of George Artus, the local representatives are ready for the contest tonight. Tome will probably be used at center with Charlie Powers in a guard position with C. Husta and M. Husta and Riconda in front.

Nurmi Races Again Tonight

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 28.—American middle distance runners, beaten at every turn by Finland's two aces, Nurmi and Ritola, will make one last desperate effort to force either or both to accept defeat tonight when the finale of the annual Millrose A. A. carnival is held at Madison Square Garden. Virtually the same field that trailed Nurmi into the wire in the world's record time of 3:03 4-5 in the three ¼ mile special last night, will face the man from Abo again tonight. This time it was the Wanamaker mile and ½ and Nurmi with thirteen records to his credit in as many attempts since coming here is an individual favorite to win.

MICKEY O'NEILL IS BEST OF CATCHERS

Praised by Jesse Burkett and Dick Rudolph.

Jesse Burkett, famous Cleveland-St. Louis outfielder and the National league's leading batsman of the 90's, and Dick Rudolph, world series pitching hero of 1914, were engaged in earnest conversation at the Boston Braves training camp at St. Petersburg, one day last March. Rudolph was doing most of the talking. Burkett, once called "The Crab," taciturn as ever, strong and stern of face as a Roman senator, bulky of body as a Roman gladiator, was listening "in." Rudolph was waxing eloquent over the throwing arm of Catcher Mickey O'Neill of the Braves. He declared that Mickey had a better arm than any catcher in the game today. Still Burkett was silent. "Mickey has the best arm of any catcher of all time," asserted Rudolph.

This declaration stirred the famous batsman of old days. "Did you ever see Lou Criger throw to second base?" asked Burkett.

Rudolph had not been privileged to see Lou in his prime, and so admitted. "Now, mind you," went on Burkett, "I am not saying Lou was better than Mickey. I am only claiming that maybe Lou was just as good as O'Neill."

And then Duke Farrell butted in. "That fellow Archer of the Cubs could sure throw," he muttered. "Mebbe not better than Mickey, but just as good."

Rudolph had covered all the baseball territory of the present and gotten by with it, when he made his strong claims for Mickey O'Neill, but the trouble was, he had gone too far back into the baseball past. These two old-timers could not stand for that. Archer and Criger, as throwing catchers, left classics behind them indelible upon the pages of baseball.

After all, it would be hard to conceive higher praise for a catcher than that such keen and stern judges as these should pass Mickey's claim to be the best in the game today, and only claim an even break for their idols of yesterday with this wonderful backstop of the present.

Mickey O'Neill is a cheery, likable Irish boy. He came from the St. Louis lots along with Ruell, Hollocher, Schmandt of the famous Wabada team and was coached by that wise old philosopher and baseball writer, John B. Sheridan.

Milton Most Scientific of All Racing Drivers

Tommy Milton is probably the most scientific of all racing drivers. He drives automobiles much as Willie Hoppe plays billiards. He is polished, smooth, sure, finished. He does not drive racing cars for the joy he gets out of driving. He does not race for the thrills that he can get for himself or the thrills that he can furnish the crowds. He drives to win, not for the sake of winning, but because of the money that winning brings him.

He never seemed part of the sport in which he is a recognized leader. Esthetic in his tastes, Milton is closer to the arts than to sport. His hobby is music. He knows the classics, particularly those of the Russian composers.

Reds Give Up All Hope of Obtaining John Neun

The Cincinnati Nationals have given up all hope of obtaining Johnny Neun, first baseman recruit of the Detroit Americans who spent last season with St. Paul in the American association. Manager Jack Hendricks said that five clubs in the American league refused to waive their rights to the youngster with the result that the Reds have dropped all negotiations for Neun. Rube Bressler, Reds' utility man, probably will cover first base, made vacant by the death of Jake Daubert.

SEEK LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

SAM MANDELL & SID TERRIS

Now that Benny Leonard has retired as lightweight champion of the world, Tex Rickard, New York sports promoter, has matched Sam Mandell and Sid Terris, two of the most promising fighters in the lightweight ranks, to fight fifteen rounds to a decision in Madison Square Garden, New York City, on the night of February 6. He has offered a diamond belt, emblematic of the world's championship, to the winner. While such a title will not be official, sporting men declare the winner will eventually be recognized as the world's champion.
